

Coadjute and Osprey Integration

Coadjute is the world's first, real-time network for the property market. Coadjute securely connects all parties in a property transaction to enable real-time information sharing and true interoperability.

Coadjute is not a new portal or platform, it brings new functionality to the software you use today. Seamlessly integrated, it enables conveyancers, estate agents, mortgage brokers and lenders to see realtime progress updates, send messages and documents, share digital identities, and much more.

Coadjute is at the heart of the digitisation of the UK housing market, helping to create a future where property transactions are truly collaborative.

Coadjute improves transparency

The current property transaction process can be opaque and confusing - no party can see the whole picture.

Parties connected to Coadjute receive milestone updates throughout the process, prompting activity and improving conversion and speed to completion.

Spend less time on the phone

Reduce the cost of case progression and spend less time being called or emailed across multiple transactions for an update. The information you need is accessible at your fingertips, at any time of day

No additional portal required

Getting started with Coadjute is easy. There are no additional platforms to download or information to migrate. Once Coadjute is enabled, you can view transaction updates directly through your existing software.

Access a single source of truth

All data shared on the network is synchronised in real-time. This enables all parties to share progress updates, property information, digital identities and even payments in one place.
